

EASY TO VAMP WOMEN, SAYS HUSBAND OF 13

His System Was to Be Kind and to Tell Them He Was Lonely.

CHURCH HIS HUNTING FIELD

Alleged Bigamist Held at Indianapolis Plans to Become Evangelist.

INDIANAPOLIS, March 18.—"I couldn't beat to be alone; I craved companionship and I got it."

In this short sentence Isaiah Moore, alias James Vaughn, George Forbes, Melrose, George Church, thirty-two years of age, summed up from behind the bars at city prison, where he is confined, charged with bigamy and embezzlement, the reason why he has married at least thirteen times. He admits that he has had this many wives, and possibly more. He doesn't remember the full names of four.

Explains His Methods.

"To gain a woman is the easiest thing in the world. Look 'em in the eyes with your whole soul developed; find out their weakest point in the way of vanity; play at that angle with flattery without letting them know you are doing it, and the rest is easy. If they have pretty teeth, pretty hands, a pretty figure—anything that they know themselves—keep driving that home to them and make love violently all the while."

Tell 'em You're Lonely.

"Be kind to them and tell them you are lonely and know that there are times in their lives that they must feel the same, but never forget their greatest weakness—hunger in the prettiest part of the make-up. They must be more than wonderful and keep raving about it. When you rush them, rush them strong."

"I could not be alone. I longed for companionship and I wanted nothing more. I simply could not stand to be alone. Many times I would cry from loneliness."

"I know I married at least eleven wives; there may have been more. I didn't get money from more than two or three of them."

"After I had been married a while I would just go away. I don't know why I can't remember. Then that desire for companionship would come over me again and I would marry again."

Will Turn Evangelist.

Moore appeared to be suffering. He shook continuously and would pass his hand over his forehead frequently. On his head is a scar which he said he received when he was a boy in Kingston, Pa. He said he was hit on the head with a baseball bat and that he has suffered pains in his head frequently since. Moore said that after he was out of his present trouble he would become an evangelist. He said:

"My one desire is to lead a Christian life. I always have wanted to enter the ministry, but I know they won't have me. So I'll be an evangelist when I get out. I am going to warn other boys."

He declared he had never drank, smoked or chewed.

Moore was arrested, charged with stealing $500 from his latest wife, who was Miss Harriet Evans, now a high school teacher in a town in northern Indiana. Moore deserted Miss Evans after less than a week of married life, and when he left her at the Hotel Edward in Indianapolis several months ago, took with him $500 of her money, it is said.

After bringing Miss Evans to Indianapolis Moore obtained employment in a bakery here, and was an active churchman. He became friendly with three Indianapolis women, and proposed marriage to them, detectives say. He was always active in social affairs and usually joined a church in the towns which he visited.

Miss Evans reported the desertion to the National Detective Bureau, and it was through the investigation of Daniel A. Mack, an operative of the agency, that Moore finally was apprehended in Minneapolis, Minn.

Ready to Wed Nov. 14.

When Miss Evans turned the case over to the detective bureau operative traced Moore to Loganport and thence to Chicago. There the trail became cold. When he was next heard of he had arrived in Indianapolis and was working as superintendent of a baking company.

At the time of his arrest, Moore, according to Mack, had engaged himself to a Minneapolis girl, and the wedding was to have taken place this week. Mack brought his prisoner to Indianapolis, and for several days he was held in a downtown hotel, until he finally agreed to make a full confession.

He was then taken to detective headquarters, where, after questioning him, Inspector of Detectives Mullin ordered him held for bigamy and embezzlement.

Moore's memory was hazy as to details. In some cases he was unable to remember the names of the women. In others, he declared, he

LAY DIXIE DIXON'S DEATH TO DRUG RING

Investigators Link Her Fate With That of Miss Waddill, Another Actress.

DANVILLE, Va., March 18.—New light has been shed on the death of Dixie Dixon, a Danville actress, and evidence is in the possession of Harry Herman, a local attorney retained to probe her death, linking up her demise with that of Dorothy Waddill, another actress, who mysteriously died from heroin poisoning.

New York investigators, remarking the similarity between the deaths of the two girls on different dates, were started to find among the effects of Dorothy Waddill a letter from Dixie Dixon. This is considered further proof of the theory that the two young women were jointly employed to expose a ring of drug smugglers who have been giving the Government authorities considerable trouble between Montreal and New York. It is now believed that the two girls' activities became suspected by the drug peddlers and that on account of their knowledge of conditions both were killed by the forcible administration of drugs.

Herman proposes to return to New York next week to lay additional data he has secured before District Attorney Banton, who has reopened the investigation on a large scale. The Canadian government has admitted that the Danville actress was in its employ for the purpose of securing evidence against the alleged ring.

could not recall the name he was married under.

His first wife, he said, was Flora Doff, of Wyoming, Pa., which is Moore's home. He was married to her about twelve years ago, he said, and they had one daughter.

Under the name of Harry Moore he married Amelia Warner, of Detroit, Mich. The marriage took place at Windsor, Canada, where Harris, of Houston, La., was the next wife, Moore marrying under the name of Howard Melvin.

His next wife, Moore said, was a girl by the name of Beulah, whose last name he could not remember. She lived in Wilson, N. C., where he met and married her under the name of George Shields.

Under the name of Howard Wilson, Moore later met a woman by the name of Gertrude in Findlay, Ohio, married and deserted her and then went to Spokane, Wash. There he met Laura Shields, who, he said, lived about twenty miles from Spokane at Winlock, Canada.

Moore also married and deserted her, he said. Florence Johnson, of David City, Neb., the next victim of his matrimonial ventures, he married under the name of J. H. Vaughn. Then he went to Augusta, Kan., where he met, married and deserted Helen Hardgrave.

Although he was unable to remember the names of the women, Moore recalled having married at Denver, Col., under the name of James Vaughn, and in Ridgeway, or Richway, Md., under the name of Harry Forbes. Moore explained that it was difficult for him to remember the names of all of the women to whom he was married because he only lived with them from three days to a week. At one time carried a complete list of his wives but tore it up because he did not wish to have it in his possession if arrested.

Moore's next step into married life was accomplished through the medium of a matrimonial bureau, according to his story. Irene Hale, answering his advertisement, came from a Southern State and married him in Chicago, where he was going under the name of Howard Wilson.

After obtaining $1,500 of her money Moore deserted her. This marriage, Moore said, took place about three years ago. His next marriage, to Laura Harberg, at Peoria, Ill., the detective agency was able to trace through the records of the county clerk of that city. Under the name of George Churchill, Moore married Miss Hertzberg June 25, 1921.

Moore was unable to give the exact date that he married Miss Evans. He married her one Wednesday, however, he said, at Vincennes under the name of George S. Melrose.

The next Sunday they came to Indianapolis and registered at the Hotel Edwards. On Tuesday he left her, Miss Evans' father is said to be in the newspaper business at Coldwater, Mich.

According to the detective bureau, Miss Evans plans to continue teaching until her school term ends, May 2, when she will return to her father, who as yet knows nothing about her trouble.

Inspector Mullin said that, although it did not concern any persons in Indianapolis, the case would be prosecuted here, as it was in Indianapolis that Moore lived with and embezzled money from Miss Evans.

Moore, according to the police, met many of the wives in churches to which he belonged. He is said to be a singer and to have sung in a number of church choirs, usually ending by marrying a member of the choir.

Moore told the police that as a boy he served a term in the correctional department of a boys' reform school near Philadelphia.

THE VALUE OF CHARCOAL

How People Know How Useful It Is in Preserving Health and Beauty.

Nearly everybody knows that charcoal is the safest and most efficient disinfectant and purifier in nature, but few realize its value when taken into the human system for the same cleansing purpose.

Charcoal is a remedy that the more you take of it the better it is. It is not a drug at all, but simply absorbs the gases and impurities always present in the stomach and intestines and carries them out of the system.

Charcoal sweetens the breath after smoking and eating onion and other odorous vegetables.

Charcoal effectively cleans and improves the complexion, it whitens the teeth and further acts as a natural and eminently safe cathartic.

It absorbs the injurious gases which collect in the stomach and bowels; it disinfects the mouth and throat from the poison of catarrh.

All druggists sell charcoal in one form or another, but probably the best charcoal and the most for the money is in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges; they are composed of the finest powdered Willow charcoal, in tablet form or rather in the form of large pleasant tasting lozenges, the charcoal being sweetened to be smooth and palatable.

The daily use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath and purer blood, and the beauty of it is, that no possible harm can result from their continued use, but on the contrary, great benefit.

Many physicians advise Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges to patients suffering from gas in stomach and bowels, and to clear the complexion and purify the breath, mouth and throat. Charcoal is also believed to greatly benefit the liver. These lozenges cost but thirty cents a box at drug stores, and you get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges than in any of the ordinary charcoal tablets.

Billiard Cue Strikes Eye and Causes Boy's Death

MONTREAL, March 18.—While picking up a billiard cue he had dropped on the floor during a game with his father, Harold Stevens stepped on one end of the cue, causing the tip to flip up and strike him in the eye.

He rubbed the eye, retrieved his cue, and continued his game, thinking no more of the accident. Now he is dead of a cerebral abscess, which originated in the injured eye.

BUILD "DEVIL ANSE" IMPOSING STATUE

Monument, Made in Italy, to Stand at Grave of W. Va. Feud Leader.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., March 18.—A life size statue of "Devil Anse" Hatfield, famous West Virginia mountaineer, has been shipped to Huntington from Carrara, Italy, where it was carved by a world famous sculptor.

The statue shows Hatfield standing erect in typical garb of the mountaineers. It is cut from Italian marble from a design furnished by F. G. McColm of this city.

When the pedestal is completed the height will be thirteen feet. It will be erected near the pioneer's old home in the family cemetery, on Main Island Creek, Logan county.

His widow and children are erecting the statue, and it is planned to have it ready for unveiling within a few days.

The statue shows "Devil Anse" standing erect in a characteristic attitude.

The pedestal is being made in this city and when completed may be seen at the McColm Granite Company on Nineteenth street.

There is no epitaph on the monument. On the front of the pedestal these words will be cut: "Captain Anderson Hatfield, 1839-1911," and "Leviy Chafin, his wife, 1849-"

On the opposite side the names of the thirteen children will be placed. These are Johnson, William A., Robert L., Nancy, Elliot R., Mary, Elizabeth, Elias, Troy, Joseph D., Rose, Willis E., and Dennis S.

Wife Beater Is Paroled to His Son, 14, a Boy Scout

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 18.—Harry Solomon, a blacksmith, was paroled to his fourteen-year-old son, a Boy Scout, in municipal court here.

Testimony showed the boy had knocked his father down when the father struck the boy's mother. The older Solomon said he had been drinking.

Wives With Baby Buggies Want Wide Sidewalks

SAN FRANCISCO, March 18.—It was shown by women wheeling baby carriages three abreast that narrowing sidewalks would mean that mothers would have to leave their babies at home when they shopped. So the lighting committee of the board of supervisors has abandoned temporarily a proposed measure to widen the streets by cutting down the width of the walks.

Dancers Wore Only Earrings, Is Charge

BERLIN, March 18.—Lola Bach will wear clothes for the next month, at least. Fraulein Bach and her troupe of dancers, who have aroused all sorts of sensations in a cabaret, were in the police court. Fraulein Bach was given a month's imprisonment and her assistants were fined after a purity worker had testified they wore only earrings in addition to the charms nature gave them.
